You'll have many health insurance options as you approach age 65.

Start learning about some of them today.

[James A. Sample
123 Any Street
Any Town, ST 10001]

Dear [Sample A. Sample],

What is Destination: Discovery? It's a series of mailings designed to give you an understanding of Medicare and help you discover the health insurance options available to you.

Destination: Discovery was created after hearing from many Americans who wanted an early start on planning their health care coverage. It's part of UnitedHealthcare Insurance Company's commitment to giving those who will be eligible for Medicare (usually, that's at age 65) a clear idea of what choices are available—including AARP® Medicare Supplement Insurance Plans, insured by UnitedHealthcare Insurance Company (UnitedHealthcare).

Each mailing you receive will help build a solid foundation from which you can further explore your Medicare options. Think of it as a journey that can help you decide on the coverage you may need as you turn 65.

A little planning goes a long way.

With all the information out there on Medicare, things can get confusing. This mailing gives you a head start. Inside you'll find a brochure that helps to explain:

- What Medicare is and how it works
- An overview of Medicare Part A through Part D and what they generally cover
- What Medicare supplement insurance is and how it works with Medicare
- Which steps you need to take to make sure you have the coverage you want at age 65

Please take a few minutes now to review the enclosed brochure. Together with other Destination: Discovery mailings you'll be receiving in the coming months, it will give you the head start you need for the travels ahead.

Sincerely,

Susan Morisato
President, Oventions Insurance Solutions
UnitedHealthcare Insurance Company

The journey to Medicare.

There is a lot to consider when preparing for Medicare. But as you approach 65, it's important to familiarize yourself with the information you need. After all, deciding on your Medicare coverage involves many crucial factors, from financial considerations to your health care needs, now and in the future.

Wondering where to start? Don't worry. UnitedHealthcare Insurance Company (UnitedHealthcare) is here to help:

- Helping to show you some of what Medicare does and does not cover
- Helping to outline some of your Medicare options
- Exploring the Medicare-related decisions that you may need to make before turning 65

Over the following pages, you'll get a basic overview of Medicare, part by part. For more in-depth information, the government sends Medicare & You, the official handbook on Medicare, about six months before an individual's 65th birthday. You can also visit www.medicare.gov for more details.

So start planning today and you'll be on your way to making informed decisions when it's time to enroll in Medicare.

Medicare is a federal health insurance program.

It is for people age 65 and over, as well as the disabled. Since 1965, it has helped millions of Americans pay for the health care services they need – playing an important role in the lives of people 65 and over.

Turning 65 soon?

If you are 65, generally, you're eligible for Medicare if:

- You or your spouse have worked for at least 10 years in Medicare-covered employment and
- You're a U.S. citizen or permanent resident for at least five years

You can get Medicare Part A with no premiums if you meet the above and:

- You are eligible to receive benefits from Social Security or the Railroad Retirement Board and haven't filed for them or already receive them

If you meet these eligibility requirements, you can enroll in Medicare as early as three months before turning 65.

Other ways you could be eligible for Medicare

Generally, if you are under 65, you're eligible for Medicare if:

- You're a U.S. citizen or permanent resident for at least five years and
- You have a disability or end-stage renal disease (ESRD) and meet certain requirements

You can get Medicare Part A with no premiums if you meet the above and:

- You have received Social Security or Railroad Retirement Board disability benefits for 24 months

Enrolling in Parts A & B

If you're not receiving Social Security when you turn 65 and want Medicare Parts A & B, you must sign up at your local Social Security office. You can do this as early as three months before turning 65. If you're receiving Social Security benefits at 65, you'll automatically be enrolled in Parts A & B. You can refuse Part B by contacting your local Social Security office.

Medicare Decision Path

Each year, thousands of Americans turning 65 make important choices about Medicare. Some take the time to heavily research their options, while for others it may be a last-minute decision. Either way, there's a lot to be informed on. Here's a look at some of the choices you could make in the next year to get the health coverage you need.

When you turn 65, Medicare Parts A & B are available from the government.

Hospital coverage (Part A)

It helps pay for inpatient care in a hospital or a nursing facility after a hospital stay, as well as some home health care and hospice care. Medicare works the same way throughout the U.S. with any provider that accepts it.

Medical coverage (Part B)

It helps pay for services like doctors visits, lab tests, and some diagnostic screenings not covered by hospital insurance. Various medical equipment and supplies are also covered. Dental, vision, hearing, and prescription drug benefits are not included.

Medicare pays:

- For each benefit period, all fees for covered inpatient hospital stay-related care except the Part A deductible and applicable co-insurance amounts
- About 80% of Part B covered doctor and outpatient medical expenses [(after the annual deductible is met)]

You pay:

- For each benefit period, the Part A deductible and applicable co-insurance amounts [(2010 deductible: $1,100)]
- Usually a Part B premium
- About 20% of Part B medical expenses
- Part B co-pays, co-insurance, and deductibles [(2010 deductible: $155)]

Part C is Medicare Advantage. These plans are Medicare-approved, but offered by private insurers.

Medicare Advantage (Part C)

It's a single plan that covers the same hospital and medical services as Parts A & B. Some plans include Medicare prescription drug coverage (Part D), and may require an extra cost, and may offer extra benefits like vision, dental, hearing, and/or health & wellness programs.

Depending on the provider, different types of plans are offered, with premiums and benefits that vary by county. The most common types include:

- Health maintenance organizations (HMO)
- Preferred provider organizations (PPO)
- Private fee-for-service organizations (PFFS)

Some plans have provider networks. This means you may have to see in-network doctors and/or hospitals to receive covered services. You may also need a referral to see a specialist.

Part C pays:

- Provider services based on fixed fees for covered services

You pay:

- Part B premium
- Medicare Advantage premium (if your plan charges one)
- Co-payments for doctors visits (if your plan charges them)
- Deductibles (if your plan charges them)

Part D helps pay for prescriptions, and works with supplemental coverage, with Part C, or on its own.

Prescription drug insurance (Part D)

If you have Medicare Parts A & B, this plan can be purchased separately to help pay for prescription drugs, including all medically necessary drugs. These plans are offered by Medicare-approved private insurers – costs and covered drugs vary from plan to plan. You can also get a Part D plan through some Medicare Advantage plans.

Part D pays (in a single year):

- For covered prescriptions included on the formulary (a list of covered drugs)
- Varying shares of those covered prescription costs until you've spent [$4,550*] out of pocket
- Most of the covered prescription costs after you've spent [$4,550*]

You pay (in a single year):

- Monthly premiums
- Varying shares of covered prescription costs (usually co-pays), until you spend a total of [$2,830*]
- 100% of all prescription costs, after you've spent [$2,831] and up until you spend [$4,550*]
- Low or zero co-pays or co-insurance for prescription drug costs, after you've spent [$4,551*]

For more details and information on Part D, visit www.medicare.gov.

*Out-of-pocket expenses based on [2010] data.

Not all expenses are paid for by Medicare.

Part A can still leave you with hospital deductibles and co-insurance, and Part B only pays about 80% for covered medical services. However, there's a way to get help with some of the out-of-pocket expenses Medicare doesn't pay.

Medicare supplement insurance.

These are government-standardized plans that help to limit some of the out-of-pocket costs not paid by Medicare Parts A & B, while helping to give you some control over your health care with features such as choosing your own doctors that accept Medicare. A variety of standard plans are available, each offering various benefits. These plans are available through private insurers.

Depending on your plan, Medicare supplement insurance pays:

- Part A co-insurance, and most plans pay the hospital deductible
- Up to 20% of the out-of-pocket costs not paid by Part B

You pay:

- Monthly premiums
- Limited out-of-pocket costs

You also get:

- To keep your own Medicare-accepting doctors
- Freedom to choose any doctor and hospital that accepts Medicare
- Coverage that follows you anywhere you travel in the U.S.

There's more to know and more to come.

Over the coming months, you'll be receiving additional information to help you with your Medicare choices. Along with the government provided Medicare & You handbook, you will be given valuable details on the benefits of an AARP® Medicare Supplement Insurance Plan, insured by UnitedHealthcare Insurance Company.

This will be particularly helpful if you choose the "Medicare Parts A & B" route on the Medicare Decision Path (pg. 5).

It all starts with the right foundation.

The Medicare supplement insurance products from UnitedHealthcare Insurance Company were selected to carry the AARP name because of a shared commitment to meeting the needs of Americans over 50.

After all, AARP has been helping those Americans for more than fifty years. One way it does that is by creating relationships with respected companies that offer the kind of services you need.

Medicare Points

Ten things to keep in mind over the next year.

- 1 You can get Medicare through Parts A & B, or through Part C (Medicare Advantage)
- 2 Part A (hospital) and Part B (medical) coverage is available from the government and is standardized throughout the U.S.
- 3 Part C plans offer the same benefits of Parts A & B, but through private insurers
- 4 Prescription drug coverage is available separately through Part D, or included in some Part C plans
- 5 You will share the costs of Medicare, which can vary with Parts C and D
- 6 Medicare alone may not cover all your expenses
- 7 Medicare supplement insurance can help pay for some of what Medicare doesn't
- 8 Compare your coverage needs and decide if Medicare alone will be enough
- 9 Understand your Medicare eligibility and enrollment timing as you approach 65
- 10 Call [1-800-620-9047], Monday to Friday, 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. and Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., ET

Medicare is a federal health insurance program and has several parts.

Medicare Part A, Hospital coverage

It helps pay for inpatient care in a hospital or a skilled nursing facility after a hospital stay, as well as some home health care and hospice care. Most people don't usually pay a premium for Part A.

Medicare Part B, Medical coverage

This part helps pay for doctors visits and many other medically necessary services and supplies that hospital insurance doesn't cover. Part B has a premium.

Medicare Advantage, Part C

Medicare Advantage plans combine doctor, hospital costs, outpatient care, and often Part D prescription drug coverage into one plan. These plans help pay a combination of co-insurance, co-payments, and deductibles to share the costs with you. The doctors and hospitals you go to are usually part of a network, though some plans allow you to go out of network for covered services, but you'll pay a higher cost.

Prescription drug plan, Part D

This stand-alone plan works with Medicare Parts A and B, some types of Part C plans, and Medicare supplement plans to help you save on your prescriptions.

Medicare Supplement Insurance

These standardized plans work with Medicare Parts A and B and help supplement what Medicare doesn't pay. You can choose one of these plans from a private insurance company to help supplement your Medicare coverage.

Ask yourself some important questions.

Chances are you have questions and are talking to your family and friends about Medicare supplement insurance. Look at the questions below. If these things are important to you, Medicare supplement insurance could be right for you.

Yes No

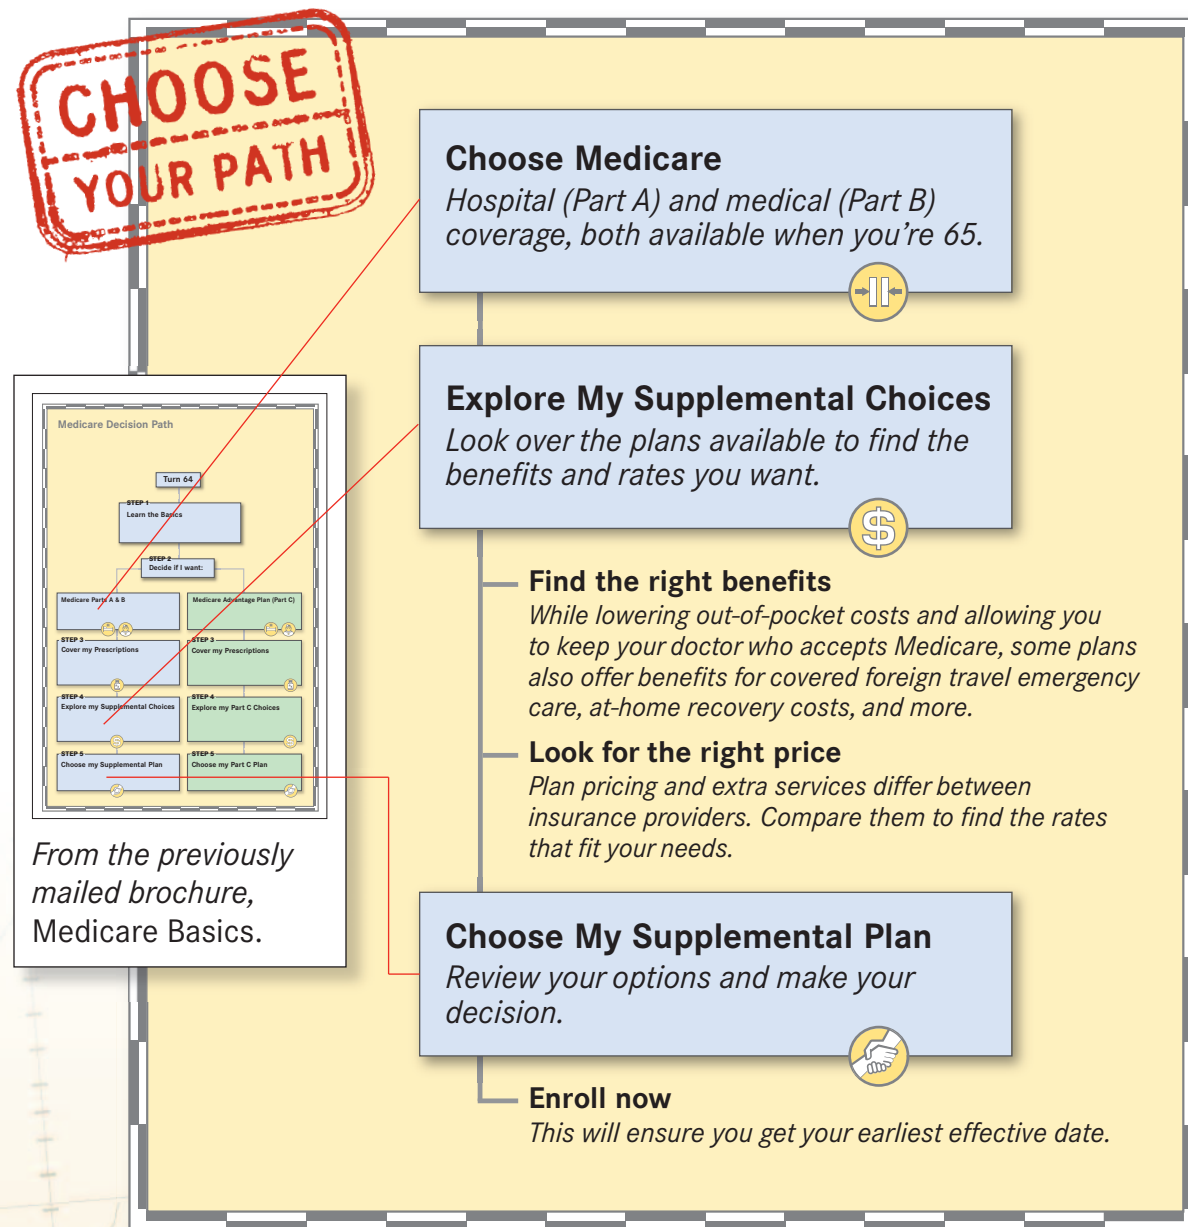

- ☐ ☐ Do I want to choose my own doctors and hospitals as long as they accept Medicare?
- ☐ ☐ Do I want the freedom to see a specialist without a referral?
- ☐ ☐ Do I want help paying the Medicare Part A hospital deductible?
- ☐ ☐ Do I want help with the 20% of Medicare Part B expenses that Medicare doesn't cover?
- ☐ ☐ Do I want coverage that travels with me in the U.S.?

If you answered "yes" to most or all of these questions, Medicare Parts A & B combined with Medicare supplement insurance could be a good way to go.

Medicare Supplement Insurance Decision Path.

Find a plan that fits your needs while it pays some of the out-of-pocket costs Medicare doesn't pay.

To consider the advantages, start here.

See why a Medicare supplement insurance plan could be the way to go.

Pay less out of your own pocket

All Medicare supplement plans are standardized by the government and offered by private insurance companies. They're designed to help pay some of your out-of-pocket costs that Parts A and B don't pay.

Some plans even cover co-pays and deductibles. As a result, having Medicare supplement insurance could help prevent you from paying thousands of dollars¹ toward medical services that you would've been responsible for. That's why it makes sense to see how Medicare supplement insurance can work for you.

Flexibility, value, ease. Three reasons to help you make a choice.

Medicare doesn't pay for all medical expenses. Depending on the plan chosen, a Medicare supplement plan can help with some of the Part A costs and the up to 20% of Part B costs that Medicare doesn't pay. Here are how three people could make their decision.

Flexibility

"I need the flexibility to manage my health care needs. I also like how my plan travels with me anywhere in the U.S. when I visit my grandkids who live out-of-state." – Anna²

Anna wanted these features that a Medicare supplement plan provides:

- A plan that goes with her whenever and wherever she is in the U.S.
- She can see any provider who accepts Medicare

Anna chose an AARP® Medicare Supplement Insurance Plan insured by UnitedHealthcare Insurance Company (UnitedHealthcare) because she appreciated the flexibility she got by being able to choose from a range of plans and competitive premiums to meet her needs and budget. She also has the opportunity to change plans if her needs change.

Value

"I want to help keep my out-of-pocket medical costs down." – Betty²

Betty knew that a Medicare supplement insurance plan offers value by:

- Helping to limit out-of-pocket medical costs
- Having virtually no claim forms or paperwork

Betty decided on an AARP Medicare Supplement Insurance Plan when she discovered that careful selection and standards means you can rely on products carrying the AARP name.

Ease

"I really like that I can keep the doctor I've been going to for ten years, because he knows my history." – Carl²

Carl chose a Medicare supplement plan for these important reasons:

- He can go to any doctor in the U.S. that accepts Medicare
- No referrals are needed to see specialists
- He can't be singled out for a rate increase
- Enrollment isn't limited to a specific open enrollment period

He chose an AARP Medicare Supplement Insurance Plan because he found out that claims are processed quickly with almost no paperwork, and he can call a friendly Customer Service Representative to get the answers and information he needs.

Keep these things in mind when making this important decision.

Choose from a range of plans

To arrive at the right plan, it's good to have options to choose from. A range of AARP Medicare Supplement Insurance Plans are offered in most states, so you can choose the plan that fits you best.

Stay on schedule for Guaranteed Acceptance

If you enroll in a Medicare supplement plan within six months after turning 65 and enrolling in Medicare Part B, your acceptance is guaranteed. By law, you can't be turned down for coverage during that time period.

Pre-Existing Conditions Waiver

Enroll in an AARP Medicare Supplement Insurance Plan when you enroll in Medicare Part B during your open enrollment period at age 65.³ If you do, you won't have to worry about health conditions that you have now.

Keep this in mind. As you compare plans, you may find that other insurers have a six-month waiting period for any claims submitted due to pre-existing health conditions.⁴

It all starts with the right foundation.

AARP has been helping Americans over age 50 for more than fifty years.⁵ One way it does that is to create relationships with respected companies that provide value while meeting your needs.

AARP providers must meet customer standards and UnitedHealthcare Insurance Company is one of those providers.⁵ You can count on your questions being answered. And you'll get the customer service and commitment to excellence you'd expect to be associated with the AARP name.

Careful selection and standards means AARP-branded products are ones you can count on. That could be why over [2.8 million]⁶ people have already chosen AARP Medicare Supplement Insurance for their needs. And you can join them.

1. Do I really need to supplement my Medicare coverage?

Everyone's needs are different. Medicare Part A helps pay for inpatient hospital costs, but won't cover everything. And because Medicare covers only about 80% of your Medicare Part B expenses, Medicare supplement insurance may be a good idea for you. It can help pay some of the remaining 20% of your out-of-pocket costs. Some plans even help with Medicare deductibles.

2. What plans are available to me?

UnitedHealthcare offers a variety of plans, so you can choose the one that fits you best. Not every provider offers a range of plans.

3. How is AARP Medicare Supplement Insurance different from what other providers offer?

With AARP Medicare Supplement Insurance, you can expect your claims to be processed quickly, with almost no paperwork. You'll get the answers and information you need when you call our friendly customer service experts. All from the only Medicare supplement plans endorsed by AARP.

Dear [Mr. Sample A. Sample],

What would you like to have when you're enrolled in Medicare? The chance to see the same Medicare-accepting doctor you may have now? The ability to visit a specialist without a referral?

You can have these features when you enroll in a Medicare supplement insurance plan such as an AARP® Medicare Supplement Insurance Plan, insured by UnitedHealthcare Insurance Company (UnitedHealthcare).

Best of all, your coverage will be waiting for you when you turn 65 if you enroll soon. You can enroll any time during your open enrollment period (generally six months after enrollment in Medicare Part B at age 65). But you don't have to wait until you're 65 to apply. You can send in your enrollment application right now so your supplemental insurance will be in effect at the same time your Medicare coverage starts.

Medicare doesn't pay for everything.

However, like all Medicare supplement plans, an AARP Medicare Supplement Insurance Plan can help pay some of the out-of-pocket expenses Medicare doesn't.

Enroll and have claims for any medical conditions considered.

Simply have Medicare Part B and enroll in an AARP Medicare Supplement Insurance Plan during your open enrollment period at age 65.¹ If you do, you won't have to worry about health conditions you have now.

For more help, just pick up the phone.

If you're not sure which AARP Medicare Supplement Insurance Plan fits your needs, a Customer Service Representative can answer your questions. A membership application is also enclosed for your convenience. Here's to having your Medicare supplement needs met in the near future.

Medicare Recap

Here are some things to remember before turning 65.

What Medicare Parts A & B cover:

Medicare works the same way throughout the U.S. with any provider that accepts it.

Hospital coverage (Part A)

It helps pay for inpatient care in a hospital or a nursing facility after a hospital stay, as well as some home health care and hospice care. You'll pay the Part A deductible and applicable co-insurance amounts.

Medicare coverage (Part B)

It helps pay for doctors visits, lab tests, some diagnostic screenings, and many other medically necessary services not paid by hospital insurance.

How you enroll in Parts A & B:

If you are receiving Social Security, you'll be automatically enrolled in Parts A & B when you turn 65. You can refuse Part B by contacting your local Social Security office.

If you are not receiving Social Security, you'll need to contact your Social Security office to sign up for Parts A & B.

To learn more about Parts A & B, visit www.medicare.gov.

Don't forget: Not all hospital and medical expenses are paid for by Medicare.

Why would you need Medicare supplement insurance?

The fact is, Medicare doesn't pay for everything.

Part A can still leave you with hospital deductibles and co-insurance, and Medicare Part B only pays for about 80% of covered medical services. An AARP® Medicare Supplement Insurance Plan, insured by UnitedHealthcare Insurance Company (UnitedHealthcare), helps to limit some of these out-of-pocket costs. As with all Medicare supplement plans, it also lets you:

- Keep your own doctors as long as they accept Medicare
- See any doctors and hospitals that accept Medicare
- See specialists without referrals
- Travel with your coverage to anywhere in the U.S.

And your coverage will never be cancelled due to changes in your health.

Why else should you enroll?

Have your supplemental insurance by 65, without delay.

Send in your enrollment application for an AARP Medicare Supplement Insurance Plan before your 65th birthday. Your coverage will begin on its earliest effective date (the first day of your 65th birth month).

Your acceptance is guaranteed.

If you enroll in any Medicare supplement insurance plan within six months after turning 65 and enrolling in Medicare Part B, your acceptance is guaranteed. By law, you can't be turned down for coverage during that time period.

Your pre-existing conditions.¹

Enroll in AARP Medicare Supplement Insurance when you enroll in Medicare Part B during your open enrollment period² at 65. If you do, you don't have to worry about the health conditions you have now. This means that once your plan is in effect, there's no waiting period before your claims are considered. Not every insurance provider gives you this important waiver.

¹A pre-existing condition is any injury, sickness, or other condition for which you received medical advice or treatment during the 3 months (90 days in Wyoming) prior to the plan's effective date.

²Open enrollment period is generally six months after enrollment in Medicare Part B at age 65.

So why wait?

You can send in your application now for your earliest effective date. Just look over the enclosed information to find a plan. Then just send in the Enrollment Form to be on your way to the protection that fits your needs.

Medicare covers a lot.
But it may not pay enough.
Apply for an AARP® Medicare
Supplement Insurance Plan.

Dear [Mr. Sample],

You'll most likely be eligible for Medicare when you turn 65. That may mean a change in how your health care costs are covered. Make sure you have help for some of those health-related expenses Medicare doesn't pay for with an AARP® Medicare Supplement Insurance Plan, insured by UnitedHealthcare Insurance Company (UnitedHealthcare). The sooner you act, the sooner you can get this decision off your mind.

Relax knowing you have added coverage and choices.

Medicare supplement insurance plans pay up to 20% of out-of-pocket costs Medicare Part B doesn't pay, and some plans pay for the Medicare Part A hospital deductible.

What's more, if you apply for a Medicare supplement insurance plan within six months after turning 65 and enrolling in Medicare Part B, your acceptance is guaranteed. By law, you can't be turned down for coverage during that time frame.

Pre-existing conditions won't get in the way.¹

Apply for an AARP Medicare Supplement Plan when you enroll in Medicare Part B during your open enrollment period at age 65, and you won't have to worry about health conditions you have now.²

A few reminders before turning 65.

If you missed earlier mailings, here are some facts on Medicare you should keep in mind.

Generally, you'll be eligible for Medicare at age 65 if:

- You or your spouse have worked in Medicare-covered employment for at least 10 years and
- You're a citizen or permanent resident of the U.S. for at least five years.

Overview for Medicare Parts A & B:

Hospital coverage (Part A) helps pay for: Inpatient care in a hospital or nursing facility after a hospital stay, as well as some home health care and hospice care. You'll pay the Part A deductible and applicable co-insurance amounts.

Medical coverage (Part B) helps pay for: Doctors visits, lab tests, and many other medically necessary services not paid by hospital insurance.

How you enroll in Parts A & B:

If you are receiving Social Security, you'll be automatically enrolled in Parts A & B when turning 65. If you don't want Part B coverage, you can go to your Social Security office to refuse it.

If you are not receiving Social Security, you'll need to go to or contact your Social Security office to sign up for Parts A & B.

Remember: Not all expenses are paid for by Medicare.

Part A can still leave you with hospital deductibles and co-payments and Part B only pays about 80% of covered medical services (after the annual deductible is met). An AARP® Medicare Supplement Insurance Plan, insured by UnitedHealthcare Insurance Company (UnitedHealthcare), helps lower those out-of-pocket costs not paid for by Medicare.
